Vice President and Chief Nursing Officer,
Beaumont, Royal Oak

Beaumont

Anne Stewart, RN, is the vice president and chief nursing officer for Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak. A position she has held since early 2019. She also served in a dual role in 2022, as both the VP and CNO for the Royal Oak hospital and interim CNO for Beaumont Health.

Prior to serving in this role, Stewart was named CNO for Beaumont Hospital, Grosse Pointe, with oversight for overall inpatient Nursing where she was charged with improving the delivery of patient care. Stewart began her nursing career at this location in 1984.

Stewart was instrumental in restructuring Nursing unit leadership, which contributed to an increase in employee engagement, improved patient satisfaction and ensured a culture of safety for all inpatient units.

In 2012, she played a vital role in Beaumont, Grosse Pointe's Shery L. and David B. Cotton, M.D., Family Birth Center becoming Michigan's first designated Baby-Friendly birth center by Baby-Friendly USA, offering a high level of care and education for breast-feeding mothers and their babies.

In 2018, Stewart led Beaumont, Grosse Pointe to their initial Magnet designation. The Magnet recognition program examines the quality of nursing leadership and the management style of hospital leaders. It is considered the highest recognition for nursing excellence.

She has a bachelor's in nursing from Oakland University, a master's in business administration from Oakland University and is a board-certified nurse executive. In 2014, she received the Oakland University Nightingale Award for Distinguished Alumni, and in 2020, she received the Oakland University Nightingale Award for Excellence in Executive Administration.
